Qantas Freight Changes to Tasman Freight Services

From 01 May the Qantas Group will make a number of changes to its Tasman international passenger services resulting in a temporary reduction in wide body passenger aircraft frequency.

To minimise any impact on customers Qantas Freight has committed to increase rotations of its current Tasman B767 freighter operations to seven days a week. From 03 May 2010, we will also commence an overnight freighter service between Melbourne and Auckland.

Qantas Freight's B767F Tasman freighter service will now operate from 01 May as follows:

The supplementary MEL – AKL – MEL service will operate from 03 May as follows:

Please note that no main deck capacity will be available on QF7739 and QF7740 due to the service being operated by a B767-300 passenger aircraft. Please ensure that equipment used is suitable for this aircraft type so as to avoid delay or offload.

We are absolutely committed to providing our valued customers on both sides of the Tasman with a sustainable and reliable freight services and firmly believe that with this solution we will be able to provide continuity of service and minimise distribution.
